Art Unit: 1761

Claims 4, 5, 8-12 and 14-27 are allowed.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 28, 29, 35 and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kaestner (GB 1,428,920).

Kaestner discloses electrolytically-generated bactericidal solution for use in food processing plants and also by wahing the surfaces of meat (page 3, column 1, lines 10-15). The process is most easily described in claim 1 where salt is electrolyzed to form hypochlorous acid and this is sprayed onto a bacteria-laden surface. At page 3, column 2, last 4 lines, the pH of the system is lowered to a pH of 7.0 by the supplying metered amounts of acetic acid.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

⁽a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 30-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaestner as applied to claims 28, 29, 35 and 36 above, and further in view of Romans.

The claims appear to differ from the reference in the recitation of specific santitation cites in a food process operation. Romans teaches at page 22, 23, 56, 57 that sanitation is a critical element to the preparation of safe and wholesome meat products. Each of the process areas that are set forth in the claims are well known meat process operations that require sanitation. To use the sanitizing spray of Kaestner would have been an obvious extension of the use of the spray in meat processing.

Claims 35-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kaestner in view of Romans as applied to claims 28-34 above, and further in view of deVries.

The claims appear to differ from the reference in the suggestion of using a pressurized spray to control pathogens during livestock slaughter.

DeVries teaches that it is preferred to use high velocity jets of spray to improve the sanitation of the meat surface (column 4, lines 25-30). Thus it would have been obvious to pressurize the liquid of Kaestner in a meat processing operation in order to improve the effectiveness of the sanitation phase of the process.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
